Los Angeles, California (February 6, 2024) — Photo Independent, an international art fair dedicated to connecting fine art photographers with photography collectors, announces its inaugural exhibition, Visions Unbound: A Photographic Journey Through American Eyes, at Cromwell Place. The exhibition showcases the work of seven contemporary American photographers, highlighting the diversity of photographic art in the United States.

The exhibition features photographers Donn Delson, Erica Kelly Martin, Glen Wexler, Jessie Chaney, Maureen J Haldeman, SameSource, and Zoe Wiseman. These artists present a range of styles and subjects, including fine art nudes, photocompositions, portraiture, abandoned spaces, and aerial photography.

Visions Unbound provides a unique experience for visitors and collectors, showcasing the ability of photography to communicate ideas, evoke emotions, and document the world. Each artist offers a distinct perspective on their chosen subject matter.

“We are excited to present ‘Visions Unbound’ as our inaugural exhibition at Cromwell Place,” said Chris Davies, founder and director of Photo Independent. “This collection represents the current state of American photography and the high-quality work supported by Photo Independent. We encourage everyone to come and experience the diversity of contemporary American photography through the work of these seven talented artists.”

The exhibition will be on view from May 21–26, 2024 at Cromwell Place, 4 Cromwell Place, London, SW7 2JE. An opening reception will be held on Tuesday, May 21 from 4-9pm, allowing the public to meet the artists and learn about their work.
